

Indoor Connectivity

Closing the experience gap in commercial real estate

From first occupancy and beyond, 4G or 5G mobile connectivity is essential to the fabric of every building. All too often however, the quality of coverage tenants and visitors receive indoors fails to match the experience they enjoy outside.

Thick walls, steel structures and the use of metallised-glass in building design can reduce signal strength or block it completely. Calls are missed, mobile apps won't load and productivity falls as tenant and visitor frustrations rise.

As one of Europe's leading telecoms providers, CellNex UK will deliver the indoor mobile coverage and capacity you need to optimise occupancy, maximise rental revenues and meet the demands of today's ultra-connected tenants.

From building design and planning to construction, fit-out and retrofit, CellNex UK can join you at any stage of your project – offering expert guidance and the latest indoor solutions.
