Barcelona, 16 April 2018. Cellnex Telecom is taking part for the third consecutive year in TowerXchange Meetup 2018, one of the major international reference meetings in the telecommunications infrastructure field, to be held on 17 and 18 April in London and bringing together around 270 key figures from the industry.

TowerXchange is a think tank that offers speeches, roundtable discussions and talks; at the last Meetup there were more than 250 captains of industry from the telecommunications infrastructure structure. The aim is to foster debate and interaction among the leaders of the whole sector, from investors to operators, regulators, technology providers, academics, mobile telephony operators, and more.

Among the confirmed speakers are senior executives from companies such as Global Tower, Wireless Infrastructure Group, Astem, INWIT, MBNL, El Towers, Arcus Infrastructure Partners and Russian Towers. Representing Cellnex Telecom will be: Tobías Martínez, President and CEO of the company; Alex Mestre, Director of Commercial and Business Development (CCO), Òscar Pallarols, Global Commercial Director, Juan José Gaitán, Director of Investor Relations and Antoni Brunet, Director of Public and Corporate Affairs.

Each year, as part of its commitment to promoting young talent, TowerXchange awards prizes to 25 young executives considered the most promising Rising Stars in the telecommunications infrastructure sector. In this edition four young people from Cellnex Telecom have been chosen from among the most outstanding: Matteo Felli (Italy), Tobias Schewender (Spain), Mohamed Ba (France) and Maarten Kippers (Holland).
