

Indoor Connectivity

Closing the experience gap in hotels and conference venues

Fast, reliable mobile connectivity matters everywhere. Today's hotel guests and conference delegates expect to be able to make a call, join a video session or access emails, and 'go live' on social apps when the mood takes them. If they can't, they'll be asking why.

In many cases, the answer is the building itself. Thick walls, steel structures and the use of metallised-glass can reduce signal strength or block it completely.

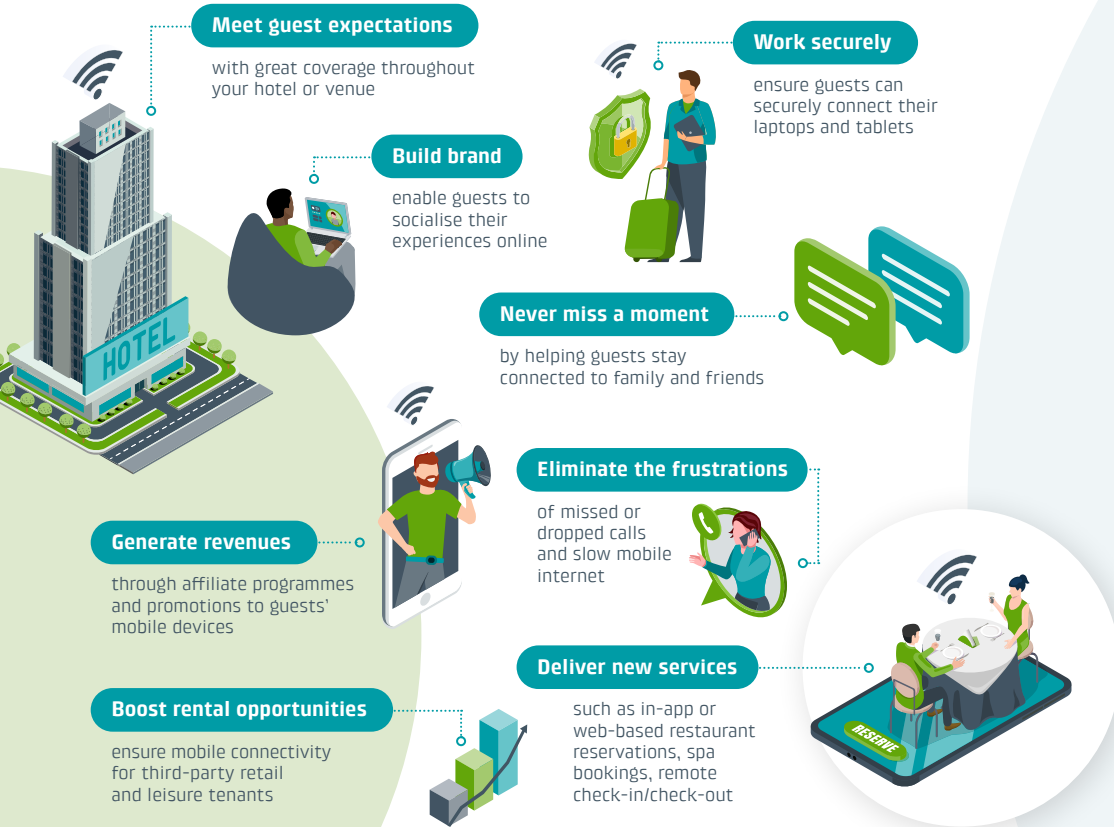

However, there's a cost-effective way to boost the mobile operator connectivity around your building which can do more than help you meet customer expectations.

As one of Europe's leading telecoms providers, Cellnex UK will deliver the indoor mobile coverage and capacity you need to deliver new services, generate additional revenues and become the 'go to' venue of choice.

Great connectivity is no longer a 'nice to have'. For hotels and conference venues it's business critical – for you and your guests.
